ANNOUNCEMENTS

Miss M. C. Adles will be in Nor-wick all this week. See adv.

Vesterday afternoon, at the Bronx Masonic temple, Now York city, a large audience listened with deep interest to the address on Christian Science delivered by Prof. Herman S. Hering, C.S.B., of Concord N. H.

It is expected that he will give the shine lacture at the Y. M. C. A. hall (Church strest entrance), at 8 o'clock this evening. He will be introduced by Herbert M. George, first reader of the local Christian Science society. No dishets required.

Orchard Improvement.

The Connecticut agricultural college a co-operation with the Connecticut comological society, will give a demissiration in pruning and spraying aglected apple trees in the orchard of E. Stoddard, Abington, Conn., on Vednesday, April 5. The work will be progress all day and everyone is avited to be present. If the weather unfavorable the meeting will be held a the first fair day following.

The second year's treatment of secrety pruned apple trees will be disussed and demonstrated.

medy Week at the Auditorium.

The management of the above theahas secured for the present week a tarat comedy sketch that is a verle whiciwind of laughter. There is guesswork about the above stateth, as the act is personally known the management, who consider it of the best laughing features on read today. The title of this "butbuster" is "His Rhom Mate," and a sketch that deals with college one of the male characters being ged through ridiculous circumloces, to assume a woman's part, ch brings out some of the funniest ations imaginable. The laughs in clever little playlet are not drawn into three or four long acts, as he case in most farce comedies of nature, but are condensed down to minutes. The Cronin councely pany are the perpetrators of this sult on your good nature.

POLI'S THEATER.

Beginning this afternoon the Poli Players will offer for the week one of the best things of their entire season, a production of Brandon Thomas' laughable comedy, "Charley's Aunt." The members of the company have already shown themselves particularly apt in comedy roles, and this production, coming at this time, should be unusually attractive and welcome as well. For next week the company is preparing "The Village Postmaster," for which tickets will be placed on sale soday.

BREED THEATER.

The Seminole's Sacrifice, an historical romance of the Seminole war, is the feature picture at the Breed today, and deals with Red Jacket, the most memorable and picturesque figure in the Beminole war. At the opening of the picture, an English trader buys a squaw, but the commander of the American fort forces him to marry her. For revenge, he incites the Seminoles against the whites, but the Indians meet with defeat at every turn and are on the verge of starvation, when General Jackson offers universal amnesty if they will deliver to his camp in irons their chief, Red Jacket. This the old warrior refuses to do, but for the benefit of his people he made the sacrifice of his own free will, and imfettered by bands of iron he delivers himself to the paleface general. It is a supremely strong and impressive picture, and stands foremost in the line of historical picture dramas of today.

As usual, a splendid Biograph story is included on the programme, and in addition, Miss Georgie Landry, a new oprane, will be heard in a selected song programme, including the latest that best in illustrated songs.

Little Sidelights on Legislators and Legislation

The committee on forfeited rights reported favorable Friday on the pelition of Henry E. Simmons, formerly of Killingly, for restoration of all rights forfeited by him. On motion of Mr. Banks, however, because of the slight attendance, moved that the matter be tabled, which action was

A bill providing that any assessor in this state should not be paid less than $3.50 a day for his services was rejected Friday after an unfavorable report by the committee on finance, they feeling that this is a matter to be left to regulation by each town.

A measure providing that any town snight vote free textbooks for any schools not public but receiving pupils without tuition charges was rejected by the house Friday. Representative Ensign for the committee on education, reported that no one had appeared in favor of the bill, but there was opposition to it.

There was not a quorum present at the session on Friday, the democratic representation showing the greatest shrinkage. There was little doing to disturb the quietude of routine procedure, so little, in fact, that one member had a most delightful sleep while laws were being made affecting his constituents.

An unfavorable report came in from the committee on education Friday on the bill providing that one hour in military drill and instruction be given each week in the high schools of Con-necticut, the cost to be borne by the state. The bill was rejected.

It is given out that the committee on humane institutions will report favorably upon the bills providing for the erection in New London and Middlesex counties of homes for the care and treatment of patients suffering with tuberculosis. The reference of the bills will then be to the appropriations committee, which fixed a huring on the matter of making an appropriation for the state tuberculosis commission for April 19.

A resolution, introduced by Representative Keach, of Killingly, has passed the house, providing for the payment by the state, as is the usual custom, for the uniforms of the messengers, doorkeepers and coat room attendants,

There is, it may now be said, very much of a doubt as to whether there will be any more Friday sessions. The house was in session just 42 minutes Friday, the senate even a shorter time. Counting everyone in the house chamber at one time during the sitting, Representative Peck of Stratford made a total of 1e7, which is less than a quorum. The senate also did business with various seats vacant. Both houses cleaned up the business on the calendars, but the expression of feeling was that it hardly paid to come to Hartford to do less than an hour's work.

The resolution discharging the towns of Old Lyme and Old Saybrook from the obligation of maintaining a ferry was passed in concurrence by the senate on Friday. A bridge to be completed this summer is now being built across the Connecticut river at that point.

report has been submitted to the sen-ate by the committee on insurance on the proposition that a committee be raised to investigate the rates charged by fire insurance companies. The mat-ter is now on the calendar and will come up for action next week.

Woman will present her claims for suffrage privileges at hearings Wednesday and Thursday of this week, and it is expected that the committee on woman suffrage will sit before the largest gatherings that have assembled at the capitol during the present session. Some of the most able advocates of the proposed measures in the state will be heard. Governor Baldwin has been invited to attend the hearings.

Senator Hammond finds among the mass of matters that are before the committee on finance, of which he is chairman, a number of propositions that are but thinly veiled attempts to operation of motor vehicles in Connecticut.

The bill reported favorably does no differ in any way, as regards the speed clause, from the present law, excepting that the provision is added that in no case shall any person operate a motor vehicle in Connecticut at a speed in excess of 35 miles an hour.

Another provision of the bill requires that a register shall be kept at garages and translent motorists who storat them shall be required to register. This plan, it is intended, will allow of keeping closer tabs on the movement of cars, as is sometimes desirable.

The bill also contains a clause praviding for a reciprocal agreement under which non-resident motorists may tour this state under the same conditions as are accorded in the states from which—these tourists come, to Connecticut automobolists.

On Thursday of this week the committee on appropriations will give a hearing on the bill providing for the erection of a dormitory at the state normal school at Willimantic. At the original hearing on this matter before the committee on education, impressive pleas were made to show how desirable such a building will be.

The judiciary committee was the enly one that worked Friday, sitting at a hearing on bills providing for changes in the Sunday law.

"And who," asked the Sunday school teacher, "who was it that cride, 'Oh. king, live forever'?" "All the life insurance agents," suggested the small boy whose father was an adjuster.—Judge.

Professor—The result of our investigations for the past half-hour is that man has freedom of will. I regret that I cannot continue the subject today, as I have to go shopping with my wife.—Fligende Blaetter. "How'll you get off for the opening game? You killed off your grandmother last season." "I get off to go to grandfather's wedding. What's the matter with the old gentleman getting married again?"—Washington Herald.

MUCH IN LITTLE Regulation sized canes, with crook-ed handles, are being carried by some of New York's ultra-swagger women.

A Philadelphian has obtained a pat-ent for an aerial advertising sign, wav-ed by an electric motor suspended from two captive balloons.

A sewing cabinet spacious enough to hold everything a seamstress may need in her work, yet which folds up like a screen and can be carried by handles, has been invented by a Missourian. By subjecting boilers to weak electric currents from dynamos through apparatus he has invented, an Australian scientist claims to prevent their corresion by the electro-chemical action of the water.
